

able

News and Views of the Student Body of The Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg.
 familiar with this column heading, perhaps I should begin by saying that every class has its angry young men who through ancient manuscript or sporting events manage to make their little satirical jabs at their environment. Since I base my little world on the adage that "might makes right". I have recourse only to this gulse. The careful reader will also quickly notice that this article will not be objective at all: after some experience with this type of reporting, it has come to my attention that in the statement "Lions 9-Christians 0" there 18 a great deal which does not meet the eye.

Having said all of this. I will address you the "Fans" with some of the crucial $18 s u e s$ which under-cut the sporting program of our seminary this year of our Lord. 1968 (the authenticity of that statement is up for grabs, too). Basically, after a year of internins. I will, in my "... learned, loquatious preacher-way..." deal with the thesis: How Ya Gome Keep Them Away From Ehe Farm Arter Th y've seen parie (by the way Harry. how about using words that are easier to copy and which us loquatious preachers understand). It is hoped in turn that this scholarly endeavor will lead us to an answer to that age old question. viz.. "All things being equal, could Moses converse with Hathke?"

In this opening attempt at "yellow-journalism" I guess I should give credit where it 18 due and thank the senior class reporter for his valuable technical assistance: by the way. I suggest that you rans put towels under your doors at night: it's rumored that he will stop at nothing for information (and you said that I'd never get you into one of my columns John). Actually, we are pleased to have John with us: we feel that his craft could be the deciding factor in the Mt. Alre game (by the way John, Mr. Benson has consented to buy the camourlage paint this time). I must close for now, but before I do let me answer the question ralsed by the juniors regarding the senior class football team; no, the government is not supplementing our miedicare checks with goof-balls, and no, we are not crazy. I know that in three years you too will have gained this ability to completely displace your neurotic tendancies (how does that grab you Dean?).

In closing. I leave you with one of those age-old quotations of my daddy (here we go again Pop). Daddy always sald. "It's better to have loved and lost!" Art Patterson
LUWAER'S LIMNE LAP BOOK
This week's reading from Luther's Little Lap Book presents a little discontent from one of the members or the seminary community -- so what else is new? By now I'm certain that most of us in the community have became ramillar with the meeting of various seminaries in the southern Pennsylvania area to discuss the possibility of forming a cluster seminary. It is an ecumenical venture, and one Which I think to be worthy of our concern because this may be the needed action to better prepare men for work in the church.

To my test understainding, each seminary is represented at the meetings by faculty and students. At the meetings the students from the seminaries are supposed to voice the general views of all of the students at their respective schools concerning the strons and weak aspects of their seminaries.

There are two students representing Gettysburg at these meetings. One is from the senior class; the other, a junior, who will be back next and again representing the students. The stipulations were that a senior should be on the committee because of seniority, and a jurior because of continuity. What about a middler, who has been here for one year so far and who has been in the midst of the cirriculum changes during the past year? Hould not a representative from the middler class be able to volce opinions and viers as well as, if not better than, a sentor who has been away for a year or a junior who has been exposed to the seminary for only one month?

Ideally, I suppose, the faculty representatives could do that, but it would not be a student orientated view or opinion. Also to the best of my knowledre, the student representatives were chosen, not to represent only their own class, but to be repre-sentatives-at-large, so to speak, who would speak for the entire student body. To me this policy would be ideal if the stipulation were not made that one representative be a senior and the other be a junior. Lo, there seems to be a contradiction.

In reality, the contradiction could be overlooked. In the first place, it would be folly to plead the case for a middler representative - it would probably sound like "sour grapes" anyway. In the second place, two students can represent the feelings of the eintire student body at Gettysburg. The 1daa- representation falls flat on 1 ts face for two reasons. First, who is represerting the student body? and second, why do not the students have a chance to be represented by two people of their own cholce?

Once again it appears as if the ecclesiastical hierarchy of the seminary, including the student-Faculty Helations Committee, has established a falr representation of students winlch is second only to the fairness and equality with which the Georgia Hegular Delegation, headed by Lester Miaddor, represented the Democrats of jeorgia at the Cemocratic National Convention in Chicago. Congratulations on a job well done.

Well, so much for this week's reading from THE BOOK. Goodbye for now - and God bless.

Harry
Want ₹o Erade some LP's? Mono, stereo, pop, lons-hair, zither, slither, what have you? Or buy and sell some records at relic prices?

A swap and shop session last school year saw a number of discs change hands, and revealed a desire for more.

A lot of people have items to offer. For instance, time was when people listened to records before buying. Not so much now, for many reasons. haybe somebody misjudged your musical taste at Christmas? And once in a while first love faces into ennul. Tastes change.

Also, other people's disc ards look greerer. Ask any psychologist.

To get the show on the road this year, sheets are being put on the bulletin boards. Sign, if interested, and give an estimate of how many items you want to put on the block.

Last year's experience showed up a problem in logistics. Given ten people with say ten records each and an hour for the action, how can they all get around to each other? And suppose there were fifteen with a dozen or so each?

Think it over, and if you get any bright ideas, communicate same (maybe in written form?) to the editor of this sheet, or to Mr. Bream.

This would be wonderful preparation for the coming Yuletide.

The football season continued last week with the Junior team emerging with wins over the Middlers and the Seniors. At this point in the schedule, the team records look like this:

Juniors 4-2

Seniors 2-2
Middlers l-3
On Tuesday, the Juniors whitewashed the Middlers by a score of 12-0. This was the third straight time that the Middlers were unable to score against the Junior defense. Both scores for the Juniors came on long passes from Quartertack John Carlson to Ed Smith.

Thursday, in a game played on a wet field, the Juniors beat the Seniors for the first time this season. The score was 12-6. The Junior touchdowns were earned on a run by John Carlson and on a pass from Carlson to Ed Smith. The lone Senior 6-pointer came on a pass from Rudolph to Ray Dice.

In the coming week, the Juniors and the hiddlers will tangle for the last time this season. The game is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 P.M. Because of various class conflicts and other schedule changes, the other two games for the week have been postponed. They will be played at a later date after the team captains can decide on dates.

between the juniors and the seniors will be played on Priday afternoon at 3:00.